

About the Contributors

David REAR, PhD is Associate Professor at Chuo University, Tokyo and an adjunct professor at Nihon University, Tokyo. He has postgraduate degrees from Cambridge University in the UK and Macquarie University, Sydney, and currently teaches courses on critical thinking, intercultural awareness, and global studies. He conducts research on critical discourse analysis, specialising in the analysis of Japanese government policy on education and labour. He has a chapter on the teaching of critical thinking in Essential Competencies for English Medium University Teaching (Springer). His major publications can be viewed at <https://nihon-u.academia.edu/DavidRear>

Aldrin LEE, PhD is Associate Professor, Department of Linguistics, University of the Philippines Diliman. He obtained his PhD in Korean Linguistics from the Academy of Korean Studies. He specializes in synchronic linguistics, Korean language and linguistics, lexicography, ethnolinguistics, and the structure and documentation of Philippine languages. Dr. Lee is also coresearcher at the Korea Research Center (KRC), University of the Philippines.

Erica Paula SIOSON is a PhD candidate at the Human Security Program of the University of Tokyo. She also works as a research assistant at the Japan International Cooperation Agency–Research Institute. Her research interests include migration and development, multiculturalism and integration, remittances and financial inclusion, and poverty reduction and community-based poverty monitoring systems. She is the author of “Uneven Integration: Local Government Integration Policies and Filipino Residents in Nagoya City, Japan,” which was published by Asia & the Pacific Policy Studies.

Dominique Angela JUNTADO is a PhD candidate at the Department of Anthropology, University of the Philippines Diliman. She has earned two degrees in Political Science (with specializations in Political Culture and Political Theory) at the University of Santo Tomas in Manila. Her research interests include political culture, popular culture, heritage. Her publications mostly cover Academic Let's Plays and surmises on trending media. These, along with notes on related creative projects can be found at <https://up-diliman.academia.edu/DominiqueJuntado>.

Noel Christian MORATILLA, PhD is currently Assistant Professor at the Asian Center, University of the Philippines. He obtained his PhD in Philippine Studies at UP, and wrote his dissertation on the testimonial narratives of Filipino workers. His other areas of interest include emergent cultures, Marxism, postcolonial studies, and critical pedagogies.

Miguel Paolo REYES is University Research Associate, Third World Studies Center, College of Social Sciences and Philosophy, University of the Philippines Diliman. His creative work has appeared in periodicals such as Plural: Online Prose Journal and Nanoism; commentaries in news outlets such as the Philippine Daily Inquirer; and academic articles in Humanities Diliman and Asian Democracy Review, among others. His research interests include authoritarianism and democratization in the Philippines.

Eduardo Climaco TADEM, PhD is a retired Professor of Asian Studies at the Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman. The former editor of Asian Studies: Journal of Critical Perspectives on Asia, he has a PhD in Southeast Asian Studies from the National University of Singapore. Dr. Tadem specializes in agrarian studies, political economy, and social movements, among others. He is the president of the Freedom from Debt Coalition and convenor of the Program on Alternative Development at the Center for Integrative and Development Studies, University of the Philippines Diliman.

Wening UDASMORO, PhD is Associate Professor and the dean of the Faculty of Cultural Sciences of Universitas Gadjah Mada Indonesia. She was also the Associate Director of Indonesian Consortium for Religious Studies in Yogyakarta, Indonesia. Her main interest of research are French Literature, gender studies and discourse analysis. She is the author of Dari Doing Ke Undoing: Teori Dan Practice Dalam Kajian Feminism [From Doing to Undoing Gender: Theory and Practice in Feminist Studies] from Gadjah Mada University Press.